ANDILE

Company Profile 2026

We are trusted with complexity.
We see what's coming.
We build what matters.

Your partner for what's next in Capital Markets

Andile keeps the trading, treasury, risk and client lifecycle systems the financial world depends on, stable, resilient and ready for what's next, so institutions, and the people who run them, can move with confidence.

The cost of the wrong call

In capital markets, judgement calls compound. Get them right, and you build resilience. Get them wrong, and you inherit the consequences for years.

01 Falling behind the curve

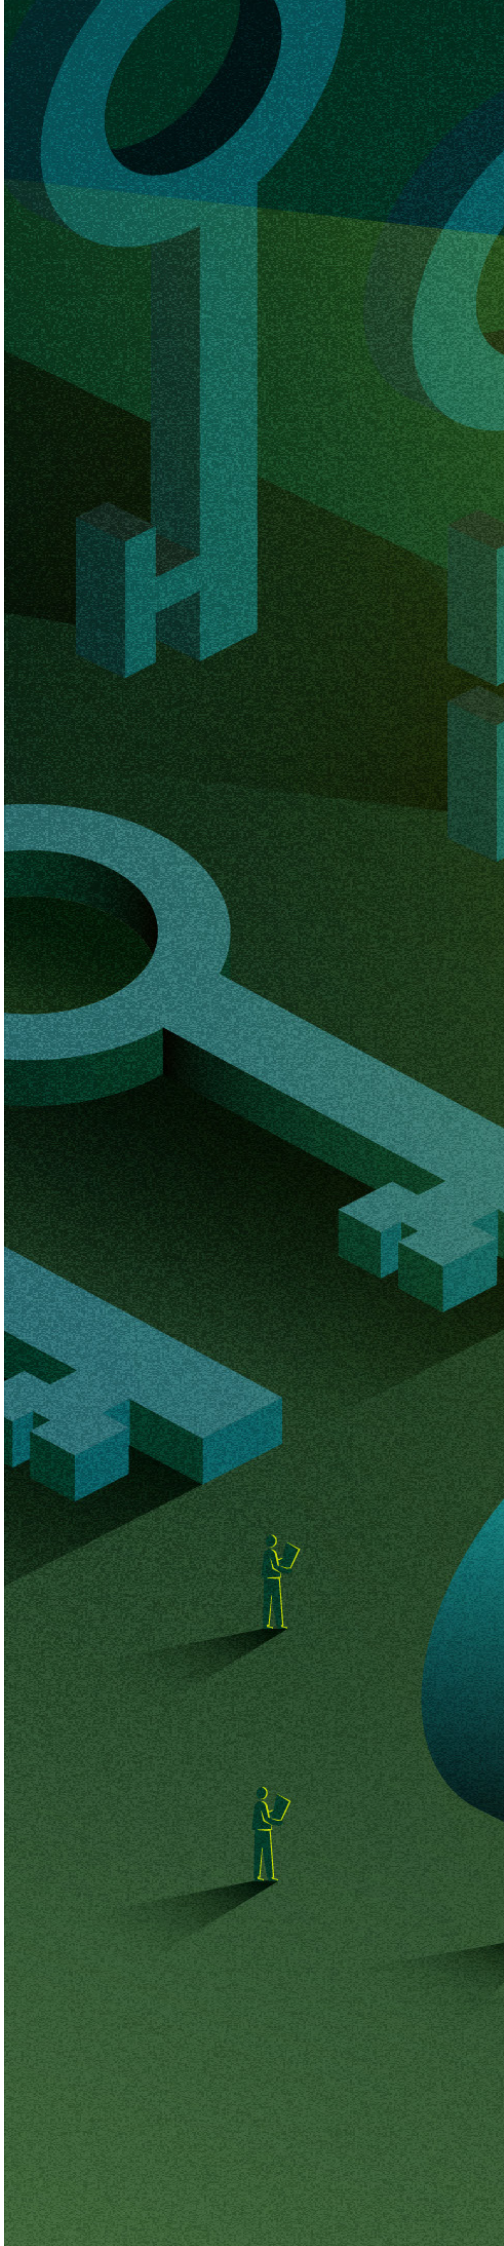

Technology moves fast, and yesterday's shortcut is today's legacy constraint, quietly limiting what you can build next.

02 Small mistakes, big impact

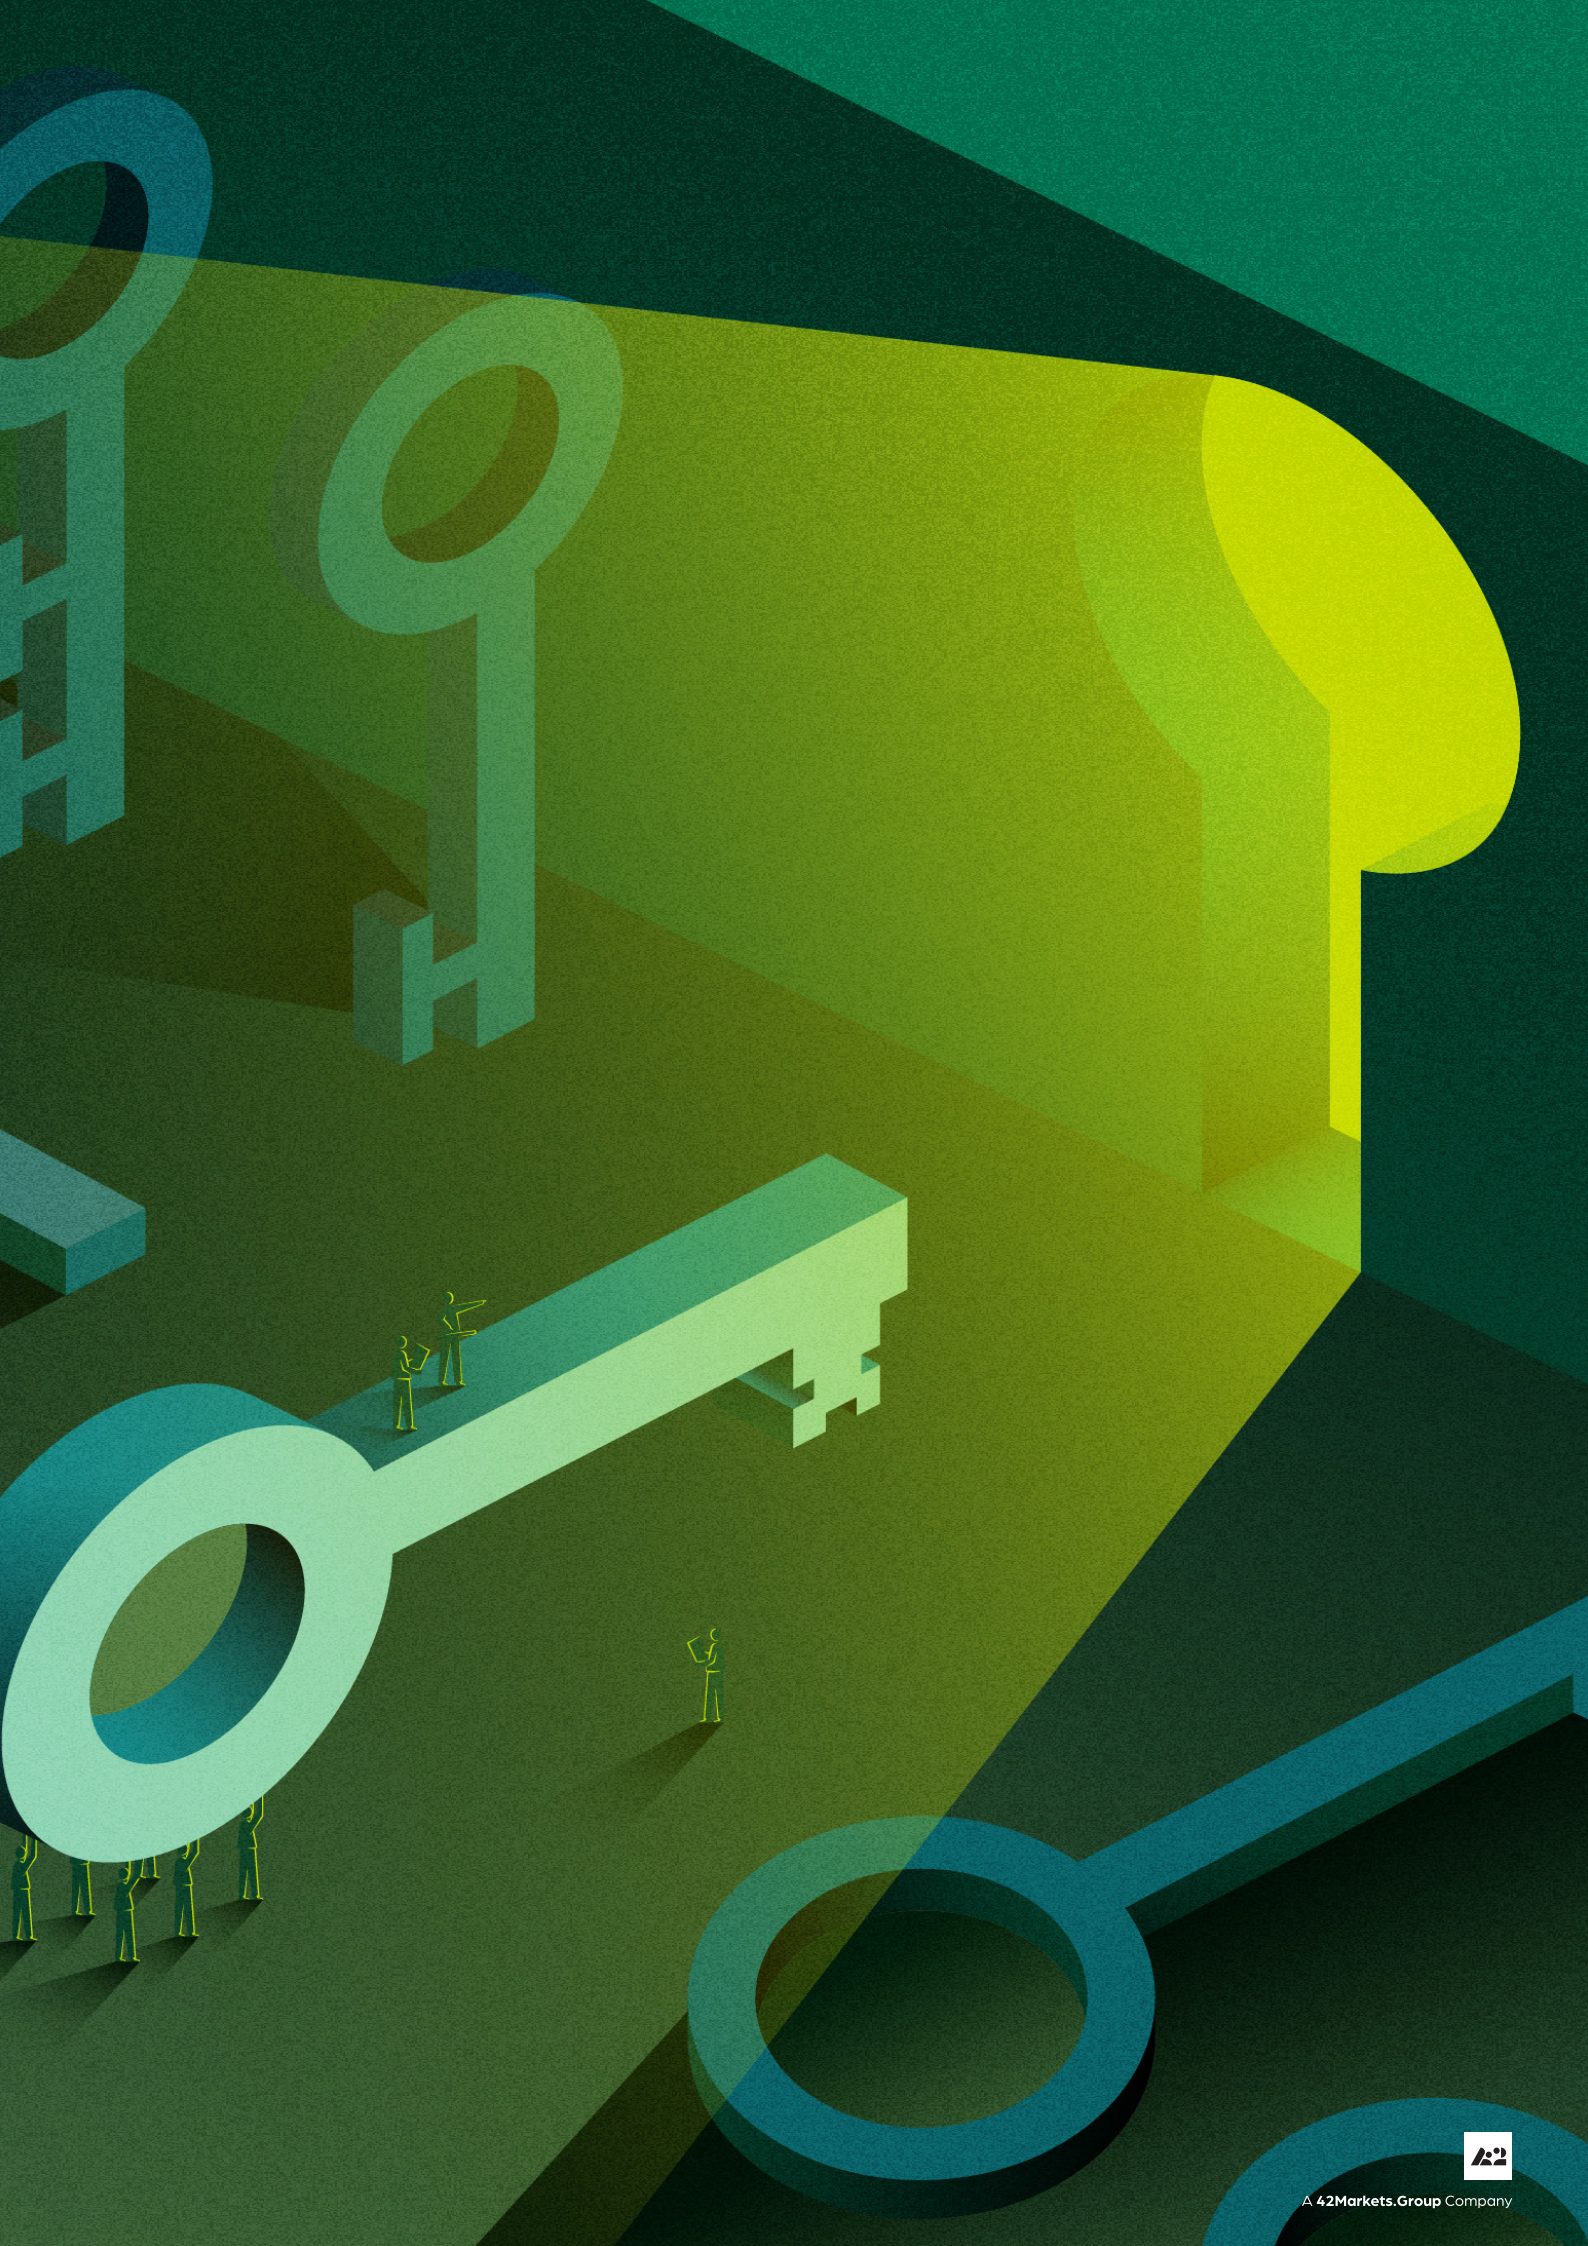

In trading, treasury and risk, there's no such thing as a minor error. The margin for consequence is razor-thin.

03 Regulatory pressure that never lets up

Compliance isn't a once-off milestone, it's a constantly shifting target, and the burden of keeping up falls on the same teams responsible for keeping the lights on.

Managed Services

Platform operations, application support, cloud and continuous optimisation, delivered by the people who implemented your systems. One accountable team, measured service levels and predictable cost.

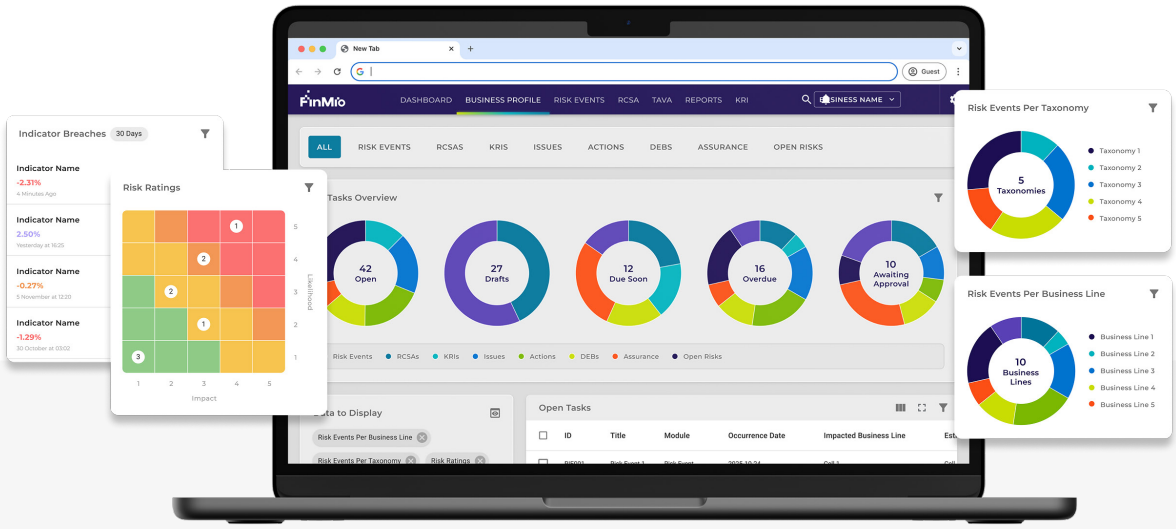

Specialist Expertise

Practitioners embedded in your teams who understand your platform, your market and the consequences of getting it wrong. They're useful in week one, not month three.

Advisory

Independent, practitioner-led advice on modernisation, future architecture and AI governance. You get clear options, honest trade-offs and a roadmap you can defend before complexity becomes costly.

FinMio

See risk clearly. Act with confidence.

FinMio Risk is Andile's own enterprise and operational risk management platform, built by risk practitioners. It connects risk appetite, events, controls, self-assessment, indicators, assurance and issues to business performance, giving leaders a clear view of where the organisation stands against its objectives.

One view of risk across the enterprise, live in months rather than years. A first line that owns its risks because the tools make sense. A second line focused on judgement instead of consolidation. And board-level risk conversations about performance and appetite, not spreadsheet accuracy.

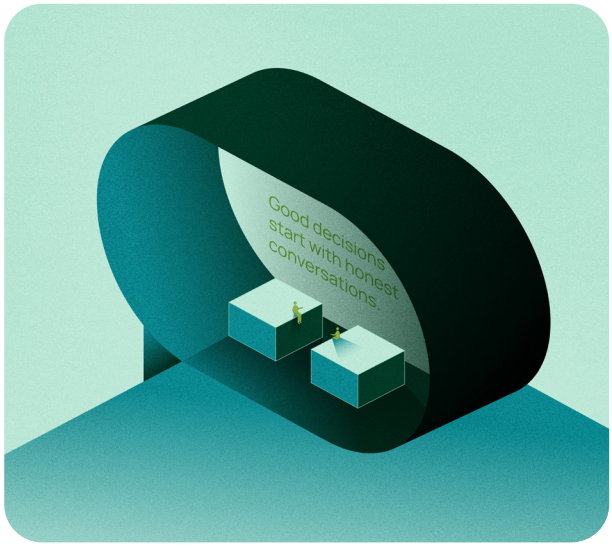

Why clients stop worrying when Andile is in the room

Deep, Not Broad

Critical environments deserve specialists.

When platform stability, regulatory exposure and operational continuity are on the line, broad knowledge isn't enough. We bring practitioner expertise forged in capital markets and the platforms that power them.

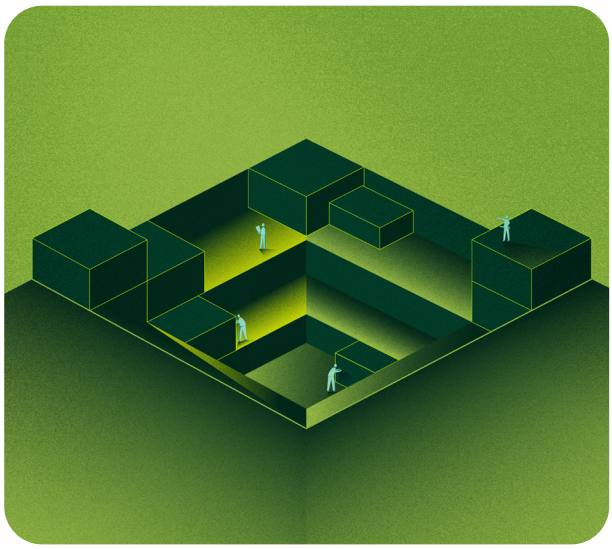

Why clients stop worrying when Andile is in the room

Honest, Not Convenient

Good decisions start with honest conversations.

The easiest answer isn't always the right one. We give clear, independent advice about what will work, what won't and why - because long-term success is built on informed decisions, not comfortable ones.

Why clients stop worrying when Andile is in the room

Embedded, Not Distant

The best partnerships are built from within.

Real understanding comes from working alongside the people responsible for the outcome. By becoming part of the environment, we gain the context to solve the right problems, share accountability and create solutions that last.
